

A photograph of a Tribal Museum gallery. The room features several large glass display cases with dark wood frames. The cases are filled with various tribal artifacts, including a mounted animal head with large horns, woven baskets, pottery, and other traditional items. The background wall is light-colored and has some faint murals or paintings. The floor is made of light-colored tiles. A yellow graphic element, consisting of a diagonal bar and a vertical line, is overlaid on the left side of the image.
